TAXATION IS THEME FOR THE POLITICIAN

Why Have Farm Lands in Salt Lake County Decreased in Value?

WHY HAS THE CITY

"The Master's Voice" Has Been Heard and Heeded in Many Cases.

Prior to the decision of the United States court in the smelter case the farmers in Salt Lake county held that their farms were ruined by the smelter

"Queer, is it not," he continued, "that since the decision the farm lands have decreased in value for the purpose of taxation? In other words, the lands are not so valuable as they were, and farming upon smelter smoke was more productive from the dollar and cent standpoint of the farmer than the tilling of the soil. "While there has been a large increase in the value of property for tax-able purposes in Salt Lake City, there has been a decrease in property outside, and the farm lands are not worth as much as they were a year ago. I sa "The Master's Voice" Heard.

"In Salt Lake City 'the master's belonged to those within the reach of 'the voice' in the matter of tithes was kept to the minimum or reduced, while those which 'the voice' could not reach

"Take the assessment on Main street. Is the ground upon which McCornick's bank stands materially more valuable than the corner upon which the News building stands? And yet upon this street there is a very marked difce in valuations in favor of the Inderstan, I don't say that this is the reason, but to a man who is seeking facts it does appear as if the 'master's voice' had been heard, and that heed had been given to the warning. And when you come to examine the fax roll all over the city, one finds that wherever a raise has been made in the wherever a raise has been made in the valuation that the owner is some one who does not hear the 'master's voice' or pay tithes to the band of twenty six, while the good rithe payer has somehow managed to get on the assessment roll at a less figure than his neighbor.

assessment was raised $200, and all the property they have was what was taken with them to the hotel.

'Another case is that of a couple who had been living in a cottage, their personal property being assessed at $250. They broke up housekeeping, stored their goods and effects and went on a visit. While absent the goods stored in the same warehouse as my friend's were destroyed. On their return they rented a house partly furnished, but it was a more pretentious place than they had formerly lived, purchased $200 worth of household effects, and their assessment was placed at $550. and their assessment was placed at $550. I only mention this to show you the inequalities of taxation.

"I notice in the organ of the band of twenty-six, the Deseret News, of to-day, this story on the editorial page: dsy, this story on the editorial page:

Here is a lesson for Salt Lake bond eaters. The city of Kokomo, the home of one of the candidates for the Vice-Presidency, is a city without debt. That Indiana town has a population of about 15,000. It is said to have the finest of everything in the way of municipal improvements and advantages, and future generations have not been taxed for the deeds of the present. Salt Lake bond eaters seem to believe that the deeper they can plunge the community in debt the more people it will attract. That is folly. The financial policy that governs sane individuals should be followed by city governments.

The Stroller's Story.

The Stroller's Story. The Stroller's Story.

"Now you," addressing The Stroller, "lived in Kokomo. What about the statement in the News; is it true or not? Tell me! Let me interview you as you have me. Now, go on!" Well, here is The Stroller's story: Among the first votes that The Stroller cast was in favor of bonds issued by the city of Kokomo, Indiana. He lived there; was a resident for thirty-five years. Printed a newspaper there for many years. The city of Kokomo was made up of a progressive set of people.
They believed in improvement. From a town in the swamps they builded a a town in the swamps they builded a city. They did it by voting to bond themselves to make those improvements. They were not afraid. There were kickers there. There were knockers there. But like Salt Lake City, they were in the minority. The city of Kokomo bonded itself to build schools, and railways, and streets and alleys, and for public buildings, regardless of the kick-public buildings, regardless of the kickers.

That was a long time ago. The city progressed; it prospered. The bonds that were voted to make public improvements carried an influx of people. The city grew. Those who came in after years helped pay the indebtedness created years before. They profited by the progressive people who had builded before them, who had made a city. The kickers profited, too. They learned. Experience taught them as it will Salt Lake City. Future generations will help pay the bended indebtedness which the people will on Wednesday vote upon themselves. They would leave the city. They left.

Meet railroad men at Saltair Friday.

So it will be with Salt Lake City. Future generations will help pay the bended indebtedness which the people will on Wednesday vote upon themselves. They would leave the city. They left.

Two Peculiar Cases.

"This question of valuation for taxation is a peculiar one. I have in mind a friend of mine who lived in a modest cottage. His personal property had for several years been valued at $300, and upon this he paid taxes. Less than a year ago he quit keeping house and with his wife went to live at a hotel. Their piano and a portion of their household goods were taken with them, the remainder was stored in a warehouse which was destroyed by fire, together with their belongings. This year their assessment was raised $200, and all the property they have was what was taken with them with them are seen as the seed of the stairway of the stairway. The door through which they hoped to escape was closed.

MEETING IS HELD OF WOMAN'S AMERICAN CLUB

An unusually well-attended meeting of the Woman's American club was held Tuesday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. George H. Raybould, 642 South West Temple street. The meeting was called for the purpose of perfecting arrangements for the reception which the club had intended to tender its president, Mrs. Elizabeth Cohen, who for the last several weeks has been in the East, on the evening of Monday, August 3, but owing to the fact that word has just been received to the effect that Mrs. Cohen is ill in New York and will not be able to be home by that time, it was decided to postpone the reception to some future date, at the home of Mrs. Raybould.

Chairman J. E. McGinty of the American county committee was present at the meeting and gave the ladies an interesting talk on the proposed bond issue. Mr. McGinty made clear all of the technical points, in reference to who may vote at the election to be held today, and also gave the women explicit instructions relative to the new voting districts. The outing of the club, which will be held at the Lagoon, August 5, was also discussed, and more than 1090 tickets were distributed among those present.

NEIGHBORS HAVE A LIVELY SCRAP

Four Women, Two Men and Two Dogs Mix in a General Melee.

RESULT IS THE ISSUE OF TWO WARRANTS

Mrs. Russell and Mrs. Brewer Are Charged With Assault by Mrs. Leona Lewis.

Warrants against Mrs. Charles Russell and her mother, Mrs. Alonzo J. Brewer of 1415 South West Temple were issued and served Tuesday by the Sheriff's office. The women are charged with having assaulted Mrs. Leona Lew is of 1418 South West Temple.

That Mrs. Lewis received a severe beating is testified to by the entire neighborhood, but as to whether the beating was justified or not, Mrs. Lewis will be given an opportunity to show when the case comes up for a hearing. Nothing has quite stirred up the district around Tenth South and West Temple so much as the incident which culminated in the issuance of the warrants. It also appears that Mrs. Lewis wasn't the only one who received a rants. It also appears that Mrs. Lewis wasn't the only one who received a severe beating. Mrs. Lewis only came into the gerap at the close but she carried off first honors when it came to showing bruised spots. The trouble ocried off first honors when it came to showing bruised spots. The trouble occurred at 9 o clock Monday evening.

Mrs. Russell had just secured two quarts of milk from a neighbor when she was passing the home of Percy Hallen. Mr. Hallen was driving into the yard at the time. He ran rather close to Mrs. Russell, and something was said on both sides that wasn't sweet, nor that wouldn't look good in print. Hallen "sieked" his dog on a bull "purp" belonging to Mrs. Russell, who immediately called her "purp" to her side.

Hallen suggested that it would be fine fun to see a fight to a finish and so Mrs. Russell expressed her willingness to witness the mill. Then the mill was on, and in about the third ness to witness the mill. Then the mill was on, and in about the third round, the bull "purp" had Hallen's big black dog on the ground yelping for help. Finally the black dog attracted the attention and sympathy of Mrs. Hallen, who came out of the house and vented her anger in a few well-chosen cuss words which were directed at Mrs. Russell, and Mrs. Russell rose to the occasion.

Struck Him With Bucket, Hallen then chimed in and when he said something that wasn't the least bit ladvlike. Mrs. Russell hit him in the face with the two-quart bucket of milk. Mrs. Hallen rushed to the support of her liege lord, and in order to help matters. Mr. Russell happened over and in some way got to mixing matters with Hallen. And the Russells had the best of the game. Mrs. Lewis, who lives next door, was attracted by the noise. She doesn't know how she happened to get mixed in the affair, but Mrs. Russell says she first recognized Mrs. Lewis as a factor in the mill when she began to pull hair. This made matters a little uneven for Mrs. Russell, so her mother, Mrs. Brewer, aged 60, bid Mrs. Lewis rest a while Mrs. Lewis turned on the old woman, and Mrs. Russell gave up her advantage to help her mother. And because Mrs. Lewis was "butting in" on a fight which was not her own, all Hallen then chimed in and when h on a fight which was not her own, all three women gave Mrs. Lewis a jolt three women gave Mrs. Lewis a jolt or two.

Meanwhile the men had been mixing matters so that both were somewhat exhausted. By common consent, when Mrs. Lewis had taken the count, all fighting ceased. Everybody beat it for home, but Mrs. Lewis, and she couldn't. Mr. Lewis arose in his wrath next day to the extent of swearing out a warrant to clear the atmosphere.

Tuesday morning, after daylight broke on the scene of the conflict, persons passing by noticed a few handfuls of hair on the ground, but no one was on hand to say whether it came from the dogs who furnished the preliminary to the bout or from the principals, who furnished the central feature of the programme.

Utah Marblecrete Company, to Make Building Material, Will Be Organized.

NEW PRODUCT TAKES THE PLACE OF MARBLE

Its Use in Construction Means a Great Saving to the Builders.

Plans are now being perfected for the establishment in Salt Lake City of a new industry which promises to become a means of great saving to the builders of the city as well as a profitable addition to this city's industries. C. C. Evans, secretary and one of the large owners of the Minneapolis Marblecrete company, is now in Salt Lake negotiating for the formation of a ompany for the manufacture of mar-company for the manufacture of marblecrete here and the new company will have the exclusive right to all of the material manufactured in Utah.

The material is a product similar to marble in appearance but is manufactured by a secret process and can be made up into any desired shape and used in almost any place. The material is almost as light, as wood, although it is hard as marble, is not brittle and almost indestructible. It is absolutely fire proof, does not shrink and when once placed has all the advantages of stone without any of the disadvantages, such as weight and difficulty of working. It is made up into almost every color and is formed by moulds into all sorts of shapes. It will be used for tilings, in place of concrete floors in houses; for facings in hall-ways; for table and bureau tops: for all sorts of tiling purposes, and in fact all sorts of tiling purposes, and in fact every use to which marble is now de-voted in the way of house finish. The inventors say that the uses to which the materials may be put are almost in-exhaustible. It is intended to organize a stock

C. A. QUIGLEY FAVORS THE ISSUE OF BONDS

Manager of Studebaker Wagon Company Would Like to See it $2,000,000.

"I am unqualifiedly in favor of the bond issue," said Charles A. Quigley, manager of the Studebaker Wagon com pany, when asked his position on the subject. "I feel that the improvements which it is proposed to carry out with the money should be carried out by that means. The city is progressing rapidly, and must have money with which to pay and must have money with which to pay for the improvements. One reason at the present time for this issue is that we have been increasing in size so rapidly that we have been unable to keep pace with the growth in the way of improvements. The result is that there are a great number of things to be done and money is required to pay for them. The failure to raise the money by this means will be a real setback to the city. It is practically impossible to raise the money for the necessary improvements by means of taxation, and the improvements must be made. This proposition is simply the old one that the improvements must be made. This proposition is simply the old one that a business man who colorges his business borrows money with which to spread out. This is just what it is in-tended to do in Salt Lake City; that is, to pledge the credit of the city in order to paide the creat of the city in order to raise money to expend on extensions and improvements which will enlarge the city, increase the property valuation, permit the erection of houses where it cannot now be done because there are not water and sewer connections. tions, and beautify and enlarge the city generally. These are only a few of the things which are needed at the present time, and the reason they all come at once is that we have kept growing so slowly up to the present time, and now slowly up to the present time, and now all at once we have awakened and find that since we have outgrown the old clothes like a school boy, we need the money with which to get the city into shape so that it will have the facilities of a great city and will attract the people who are needed to carry on business and who cannot and will not come here unless they are provided for. "I am in favor of the bond issue. I should like to see it made $2,000,000 in-stead of $600,000, so that we could have all the things we need here and could show the people of other cities that we can do things and are able to go ahead with the best of them."
